Dear Campus Community,

There has understandably been great interest in testing results that were reported to the University over the weekend. In the latest round of testing that occurred from Wednesday thru Friday of last week, involving some 2,000 tests, the vast majority of results are in, and there are two reported positive cases so far. The University's COVID-19 Dashboard will be updated in the next day.

These are encouraging test results, but to help limit future exposure to the virus and ensure the continued well-being of our campus community, we must all remain vigilant in our ongoing adherence to our safety protocols including masks and social distancing. We ask each of you to do everything you can to continue to keep our web safe.

We are all grateful to our colleagues in the Student Health Center and many other staff members who worked tirelessly throughout the weekend to appropriately process the lab results and notify and care for our students.

Best,

David Hale
