Dear Colleagues,

We write to follow up on our Friday message regarding testing and classes. The last day of initial screening testing for students was on Friday. The labs are working hard to process over 2000 tests collected since last Wednesday. Of the many results we have received, the positivity rate remains low.

Due to a software interface issue, it is going to take longer than expected to pull together the list of students who have not yet been cleared by receiving a negative test result. We will get you this information as soon as possible this evening.

All students have been informed that they must not attend any class in-person until they are cleared by receiving notification of a negative test result.

We want to make sure we are doing everything we can to support our community's health and safety and will be back in touch with you this evening.

Thank you for your patience and flexibility.

Yours,

Dave and Jeff
